From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
• She's Got Dad's "Number"
Dad Fowler and his Mrs. are about to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary—so I asked them if there's any "secret" to this kind of wedded bliss.
"Oh we've had our arguments," said Dad, "but for fifty years I made it a point to count to fourteen before any argument could turn into a real quarrel. Fourteen — because that's exactly the amount of money I had the day we were married."
"From now on," smiled Mrs. Fowler, "you better count to fourteen. The two amounts [illegible] marriage license was issued."
From where I sit, we all [illegible] some kind of formula for getting along with each other. The best one I know is "tolerance" — the business of live and let live. It has to do with little things, too, like your preference for tea, and mine for beer. Let's count to ten, twelve or twenty — and never let our differences turn into quarrels.

Leave room between trays [illegible] circulation if they are stacked [illegible] ters.

Dust all old plants debris in the [illegible] in the fall, and practice clean [illegible] rotation.

Interest in Aromatic Tobacco

[illegible] number of Appomattox farmers are making questions about aromatic tobacco. Two ways to learn about it are to visit farms that grew it this year and attend one of the sales.

The sales, which will not be sales in the usual sense of the word since tobacco is grown under contract, will be held September 16 in Chatham, and September 17 in Farmville. The Chatham sale will be at Parson's Stemmery on Main Street, and the Chase City sale will be at the new Chase City warehouse. They will offer an excellent opportunity for interested farmers to talk to company representatives and to aromatic tobacco growers.

The agency has completed approximately four years of making soil and water conservation loans under the present program, Mr. McCormick said. During that time approximately 7,250 individual farm families throughout the nation, plus 141 associations serving approximately 5,200 families, have borrowed $43,100,000.

About 80 per cent of this total helped farmers develop farm water and irrigation systems. This included buying pumps, motors and piping, drilling wells, and constructing and repairing irrigation ditches and laterals. Farmers used the rest of the loan funds to develop livestock and household water systems, and for soil conservation practices such as terracing, improved pastures, drainage, clearing and tree planting.

FALL SEEDINGS OF SMALL GRAIN DUE TO BE DONE SOON IN STATE

Fall seedings of small grains will soon be claiming the attention of Virginia farmers, says W. W. Lewis, agronomist at VPI Agricultral Extension Service,

Oats are now being planted in Piedmont Virginia and west of the Blue Ridge, with October 1 the last recommended date in those two sections; and September 25 will be the signal for eastern area farmers to begin seeding oats.

Barley seeding should begin September 15 in the Piedmont and west of the Blue Ridge areas, and in October in eastern Virginia. October 1 is also the time to begin planting wheat in Piedmont and west of the Blue Ridge.

Lewis says planting rates per acre for the different crops are: wheat, 1 to 1¼ bushels; barley, 1¼ to 2 bushels; and oats, 2 to 2 ½ bushels.

Apply 16 to 20 pounds of nitrogen, 40 to 70 pounds of phosphate, and 20 to 72 pounds of potash per acre at time of seeding. This amount may be obtained in 400 to 600 pounds of 4-12-12, 5-10-10, 5-10-5 or its equivalent. On soils of very high fertility, nitrogen may be eliminated from the fertilizer to reduce lodging. Top-dress with 16 to 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre between February 1 and March 15 if lodging is not to be expected. In the coastal plain top-dress during February.

County agents can furnish details on growing small grain, including information on what varieties to seed.

Aluminum Reduces Fixation

Ammonium, Postassium

Vermiculite may help keep your home warm as an insulator, but if your soil contains this mineral, particularly when it is of clay size, large amounts of potassium & ammonium fertilizer may be fixed by the soil, according to Dr. C. I. Rich, agronomist at the VPI Agricultural Exoeriment Station, says this mica-like mineral expands accordian - fashion and allows some ions, particularly ammonium and potassium, to be trapped or fixed between the sheet-like layers when the mineral contracts. Other ions, such as calcium, magnesium, and aluminum tend to keep the layers apart, but these ions can be replaced by an abundance of ammonium and potassium from fertilizer. Aluminum ions are abundant in acid mineral soils.

A natural process apparently is in progress in soils where aluminum ions are fixed between the layers and act as "props" to keep the vermiculite layers apart. Research at the Experiment Station indicates that these "props" are not ordinary aluminum ions, but larger groups of ions with hydroxl groups incorporated. These "props" are not replaced by other ions, so potassium and ammonium are not fixed. Laboratory experiments are underway to find the conditions under which aluminum is fixed artificially in vermiculite.

DEATHS

HENRY J. CARNEFIX

Henry Judson Carnefix, 79, of Richmond died Friday around midnight at the home of his brother, James H. Carnefix, Rt. 3, Appomattox. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eva Rand Carnefix, of Richmond; two sons, H. J. Carnefix, Jr., and J. Milton Carnefix, both of Richmond; a daughter, Mrs. Ann Belchik, of Richmond; three brothers, Thomas M., James H. and Charlie C. Carnefix, all of Appomattox; and a sister, Miss Annie G. Carnefix, of Appomattox. Mr. Carnefix, a retired tobacconist, was a native of Appomattox County.

Funeral services were held on Monday at 2 P. M., at the Robinson Funeral Home. Officiating was Rev. J. Ernest Wreen, pastor of the Dillwyn Baptist Church, and brother-in-law of the deceased. Organ selections were played by Miss Peggy Godsey. Burial was in the family cemetery, this county.

MRS. JOHN T. STANLEY

Mrs. Elizabeth Tolbert Stanley, 81, wife of the late John Thomas Stanley, died Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Johnson, of Vinton. A native of Buckingham County, she was born June 1, 1877. She was a member of Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, of Buckingham County.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Johnson, are four other daughters, Mrs. Sarah Clement, Clifton Forge; Mrs. Claudia Fielder and Mrs. Mildred Cheatham, both of Roanoke; and Mrs. Pauline Froehlich, New Jersey; four sons, Frank R. Stanley and Walter H. Stanley, both of Gladstone; H. M. Stanley, of Dillwyn, and Wesley Stanley, of Appomattox; a brother, T. H. Tolbert, of Buckingham; a step-son, W. J. Stanley, of Lynchburg; 33 grandchildren and 33 great grand-children.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 P. M. at the Robinson Funeral Home, conducted by Revs. S. H. Ellison and John P. Leitner.

How does television affect the eyes?

Miss Ruth Jamison, home furnishings specialist at VPI, points out that television has a powerful, 1,-000-watt bulb. This is very tiring on the eyes if you try to view television as you do movies, with little or no other light in the room.

For the most comfortable viewing, Miss Jamison suggests turning all lamps on low, especially those which have opaque shades. Avoid using the lamp that casts a glare on the screen.

It is more restful to have lamps about five feet away and to the side of the screen so the eyes travel from the lamps to the screen.

Generally, studies show that television is no more harmful to the eyes than movies, reading, sewing, or driving a car. Television does not cause eye defects, but under bad conditions does cause eye fatigue with such symptoms as headaches, a burning of the eyes, and blurred focus.

Prolonged viewing of television may cause eye defects to show up which have not been noticed before. This is especially true in children.

Under normal conditions, with enough other light, no eye fatigue should be noticeable for a viewing time up to 1½ hours. To protect against eye fatigue, sit from 8 to 12 feet from the screen. Analyze the amount of other light you are using, and try to have balanced light throughout the room.

In FASHION now

Gloves are important in any fashion picture. Do you know the rules for proper glove wearing?

If you are invited to a very formal party where gloves will be worn, will you know the correct thing to do with your gloves when you want to eat or shake hands with someone? Everybody has a different conception about how to wear gloves. The French, who produce elegant little leather gloves, believe that gloves should be worn, and shown off like a hat, not carried.

Etiquette books emphasize that gloves should not be put on in the street, and they should not be carried bunched up, or dangling limply.

You should remove your glove when you are at a party where liquid refreshment or a tiny sandwich is served. Remove just your right glove and hold it casually in your left hand, or put it in your bag.

At a dinner or supper dance remove both gloves and put them with your bag before dinner. Never tuck the hand part of the glove into your wrist.

Shake hands with your gloves on, except when shaking the hands of royalty or the President of the United States.

Keep your gloves on when you are in a receiving line.
